

Biography Mauricio Valdes

It could be said that real estate is in Mauricio's genes, as his father started a real estate office in Mexico City prior to his birth. In 1982, his entire family migrated to Houston, Texas to operate a satellite office established to serve the real estate needs of their Mexican clients. In fact, Mauricio's entire career has been in the real estate world, with his first job after college providing him with the task of growing the company by establishing the commercial management department.

Today, Tu Casa Realty, a family-owned and operated company, has become one of the well respected, fully-bilingual in English and Spanish real estate companies serving clients professionally in the greater Houston area.

Mauricio holds a B.S. in computer engineering from the University of Notre Dame in South Bend, Indiana. He currently resides in the Houston with his wife and three children.
