See this house in Houston's historic Old Sixth Ward and read the article in Chron.com: <https://bit.ly/1812KaneStreet>! This renovated 1888 Victorian home offers a unique opportunity to own a piece of Houston history. Recognized as the city's oldest intact 19th-century residential neighborhood, Old Sixth Ward has the largest concentration of Victorian homes in Houston. This beautifully preserved property blends historic character with timeless updates and great flexibility. Classic architectural details, tall ceilings, and abundant natural light create a warm and inviting space that stands apart from modern construction. Its versatile layout is ideal for residential, commercial, or mixed use. Operate a business downstairs while living upstairs, or transform the space into an art gallery, law office, coffee shop, yoga studio, or multi-generational living! With a walk score of 79 it is close to downtown and Buffalo Bayou Park.
